About Ashleigh:

My love of food began at a very young age, as did my passion for writing. About three years ago, I was able to combine these two passions and actually start my own website - I've been hooked ever since! I'm currently pursuing a Journalism and Mass Communications Degree and spend my free time between long drives on our county backroads, riding horses/four-wheelers, reading, and pouring over any of the local thrift shops, garage sales and farm auctions I can get to!
